Name	Description
Pelargonium 'Lord Bute'	Simply one of the best, if not the best. Big vigorous plant, long flowering and the most sumptuous flowers of scarlet / crimson edged with pink. Those who see it never forget it.
Pelargonium 'Covina'	Attractive pansy faced regal pelargonium. Top half of flower is a rich mauve, the bottom half white. Very elegant.
Pelargonium 'Angel type'	We inherited this small flowered, angel type pelargonium a few years back. Not sure which variety by very floriferous – pink / mauve / purple blotched flowers. Good performer.

Pelargonium sidoides	A real stunner – soft grey green leaves and small rich magenta flowers – limited supply!
Pelargonium 'More's Victory'	Slightly unsure about the identification - inherited the plant under this name. Rich marked red flowers and fine cut foliage – a beauty.

Pelargonium 'Grey Lady Plymouth'	Like P. 'Lady Plymouth' but with a more grey less yellow variegation.

Pelargonium 'Attar of Roses'	Fabulous vigorous plant – soft pink flower and a simply wonderful rose scent.
Pelargonium tomentosum	One of my all-time favourites – white flowers, soft furry leaves which demand to be stroked, a great minty scent and a vigorous, rambling grower.
Pelargonium 'Radula'	Like a finer leaved version of P. 'Graveolens' – I understand this is a good variety for cooking / flavouring.

Pelargonium 'Cola bottles / Torrento'	A strong upright grower with handsome pink flower – plus the foliage smells just like cola.
Pelargonium 'Chocolate Peppermint'	A variant on P. tomentosum – has a chocolate splash on the leaf. Some say it smells a bit like mint chocolate.
